WAND President’s Report

This past month I attended the 2016 Food & Nutrition Conference & Expo (FNCE) in Boston as WAND’s President. The four days spent in Boston were a great opportunity to meet and network with RDNs, DTRNs, and other professionals across the county. It was also an excellent opportunity to find inspiration, learn new information, and advocate for the profession. Highlights included attending the opening session and listening to the Academy’s President, Lucille Beseler, visiting the many poster breakout sessions, wandering the expansive Expo floor, and running into other Wyoming RDNs and University of Wyoming dietetic students.

More than anything else my time spent in Boston reminded me how the services we provide as RDNs and DTRNs are extremely important and how serving our profession through WAND helps keep us strong collectively. As I approach the midpoint of my tenure as President, I can’t help but be amazed by all the great work being done statewide and nationally through so many committed and passionate individuals serving on the WAND Board. The commitment and passion demonstrated by these individuals helps make our profession and the RDN credential stronger. I would like to thank those that have worked hard and continue to do so. I would also like to take this opportunity to call on all WAND members that would like to “step up to the plate.” Consider volunteering your time, commitment, and passion by serving as a WAND Board member because the work that is accomplished through our organization is important. The following positions on the Board will be open for the next year:

- President-elect
- Secretary
- Treasurer-elect
- Chairman Council on Professional Issues
- Nominating Committee (2 positions)

Best,
Megan

Welcome to Wyoming!

How I got to WY:
I was actually born in Douglas, WY, but moved to Fargo, ND, at only 2 months old. However, my dad was born and raised in Wheatland, WY, along with his 6 siblings so our family often returned to the WY, MT, CO corridor for family reunions and holidays. My husband and I have lived in ND, MN, and IA, so this is our first experience living at elevation! After completing my PhD in May and accepting a faculty position in the department of Family & Consumer Sciences at UW, we moved from Barnesville, MN, to Laramie.

Professional/Personal Interests:
Professionally, I have worked in the field of nutrition in clinical, community, and foodservice capacities. However, when I began teaching and working with students at a tribal college in Bismarck, ND, I felt I found my true calling in research and teaching! I’m passionate about nutrition education and addressing health and education disparities through research. My research interests include identifying contributing factors to eating behaviors such as the role of food preparation skills, consumer perception of nutrition information, and the effect of utilizing culturally relevant educational strategies. In addition, my previous work with American Indian students contributed to a desire to benefit the health and future goals of American Indian youth and tribal communities through focused efforts to understand barriers and strategies to promote healthy food choices.

Personally, I am so excited to be in WY and for the opportunities for outdoor activities. I enjoy hiking, biking, skiing (water and snow), camping, and all of the beautiful mountain scenery that is so different from the prairie and farmland I am used to. I also enjoy sporting events (particularly volleyball and football), scrapbooking, and reading a good book.

Family/Pets:
My husband, Nathan, and I have 3 children (Samuel - 11, Alex - 8, and Cara - 6) and 2 Australian Shepherds (Alpha & Omega). We are all enjoying the Wyoming sunshine, scenery, and friendly people!

Thanks for the opportunity to introduce myself. I’m excited for the chance to meet other nutrition professionals across the state!

FNCE Summary from UW Dietetics Students

A total of six undergraduate students were able to attend the 2016 annual Food and Nutrition Conference and Expo in Boston Massachusetts this year partly due to the generous stipend granted by the Wyoming Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics. Each student received $125 from WAND to be used toward their conference registration, flight, or hotel expenses. The students were able to get to know and network with WAND dietitians in a south-side Boston restaurant, Coppersmith, on the Saturday that the conference began. Each student attended four sessions from tracks that individually interested. This allowed for each student to have a unique FNCE experience that appealed to them most. Attending FNCE is an integral way in which students expand their knowledge base and learn about the impacts of the field of nutrition and dietetics:

"Being surrounded by thousands of other individuals who share the same passions that you do is very uplifting. As a whole, the largest impact that attending FNCE had on me was that it elevated my desire and reaffirmed my goal of excelling in the field of dietetics." - Alli Hinze, Junior in Dietetics Program

"As a graduating senior, the Dietetic Internship Fair was one of the most beneficial experiences at FNCE, I was able to meet Dietetic Internship Directors of schools that I am applying to this year. Hearing first hand accounts from their students helps me decide which school is the best fit for me." - Erin Lindorfer, Senior in Dietetics Program

"I attended sessions that addressed topics such as nutrition policy, food insecurity, and global agriculture. These specific subjects are ones that are not typically covered in depth in my degree program and therefore expand my knowledge of the scope of nutrition and dietetics." - Katie Jacobs, Senior in Dietetics Program
